Summary: A poetry story about four best friends..

The Four Sisters Poetry

The Four Sisters is a Hamtaro series I created. There are no Hamtaro characters in it, but they are hams -- so its somewhat related. This poem gives you a short review of the main characters in my story and about their life from the past to future before reading the stories.

Within a village, there lives four best friends
> And they promised to be sisters until the end
 Though they're all different with different personality
> There's just one similarity;
 They're all unique and wacky
> Roczan has a thing for punks,
 Yiku has an attitude of a gangster
> Mandy is obsess with herself; the girly one,
 And Kalila is known as all the above.
> They go through life laughing and singing,
 Enjoying life as they are breathing._

As they grew older, they went to different schools,
> Depending on what they thought was cool.
 It never occurred to them that their friendship wouldn't last,
> Because they've been together since the past,
 But after a year of separation,
> There grew some hatred among the friendship.
 Yiku began to hate Mandy,
> Mandy began to be annoyed with everyone,
 Roczan complains about Yiku and Mandy,
> And Kalila just agrees with everyone.
 Before they knew it, they weren't so close.
> They'd chill with each other and make it worse,
 They hold it in, then let it out,
> And then they all begin to shout.
 From then on, they'd never chill |

> Altogether, but only with one person they will

_Their personalities now made a difference,

> Because their similarities no longer exist.
 Kalila is the only one left,

> That hangs out with everyone without a shift.
 She'd think about the past and the present,

> And how their promise they'd kept didn't last forever.
